Dear Friends, Colleagues, and New Members,

The Insurance Coverage Litigation Committee of the Tort Trial & Insurance Practice Section (TIPS) is holding its 2010 Annual Midyear Program in Phoenix, Arizona on February 25 through 27.

Last year broke many records for success and we’re building upon that success this year. We actively sought suggestions from attendees at last year’s well-received program, and responded. We will deliver a program that is outstanding in every way.

We begin with an afternoon devoted to clients: “Everything You Wanted to Know About Your Client But Were Afraid to Ask.” This session will feature insurers’ in-house lawyers, risk managers and corporate inside counsel reviewing their expectations from counsel. Every insurance coverage lawyer—both in-house and outside—will want to attend.

Day 2 and Day 3 will be devoted to a variety of emerging issues not previously addressed in our programs. Please review the agenda. You will surely find topics that interest you.

The afternoon of the third day will include alternative activities, a golf outing, a public service project, and a visit to Phoenix attractions.

We’ve also squeezed in more content through, among other tricks, adding a working breakfast on Day 3.

Finally, all past activities are also included, such as an opening reception, first night dinner, and committee business meetings, including our new Diversity Sub-committee.

Best of all, our program will be at the beautiful Arizona Biltmore Resort & Spa in sunny Phoenix, Arizona.

Bring a briefcase, significant other, kids, golf clubs, and sunglasses. Most importantly, bring yourself. I hope to see you in Phoenix this February!

WRAP IT UP, I’LL TAKE IT!—ADVANTAGES AND RISKS OF OCIP POLICIES
With apologies to the Fabulous Thunderbirds, this program will explore the basic structure, perceived advantages, and potential risks of an Owner (or Contractor) Controlled Insurance Program (“OCIP,” or “CCIP”), also referred to as a “Wrap-up” policy or program. By whatever name, the common feature of such plans is the consolidated procurement of multiple lines of insurance covering various participants in a major construction project. From diverse perspectives, the panel will describe the circumstances under which a Wrap-up might be implemented, give an overview of its basic structure, identify the primary benefits sought to be achieved, and discuss potential pitfalls that may confront unwary participants.

Panelists:
Kathleen A. Creedon, CIC, CRM, Wrap Strategies, Auburn, CA

BEYOND THE “FOUR CORNERS”: REINSURANCE FOR EXTRA-CONTRACTUAL LIABILITY
If you ever wondered “When claims go wrong, who ultimately pays?” this program is for you. The panel will examine the types of extra-contractual exposures facing property and casualty insurers and how insurers protect themselves from these potentially significant liabilities through reinsurance. Representatives from major insurers, reinsurers and outside counsel will discuss the prevalence of reinsurance for extra-contractual obligations (“ECO”) in the marketplace, common situations in which ECO arise; variations in the terms and coverages available, and limitations and defenses to ECO coverage asserted by reinsurers.

FOOD CONTAMINATION IS NO MIRAGE

With the increasing decline in “mom and pop” operations and the centralization of our food production and distribution process, the United States food supply has become outright dangerous, with the last two years being catastrophic in all our major food groups—dairy, spinach, peppers, hamburger, peanuts, chicken, peanut butter, pistachios, even pet food! We will spend an hour with our dynamic panel examining the requisites to insurance coverage under general liability and first-party policies for food contamination related losses.

BUCKYBALLS AND NANOTUBES: INSURANCE ISSUES RELATED TO NANOTECHNOLOGY

This panel will address the insurance implications inherent in the use of nanotechnology. Nanomaterials are being used, and will continue to be used more often, in products across various industries. The "unknowns" in this area have led to multiple degrees of speculation as to potential problems inherent in the use of nanomaterials. The panel includes a scientist who will address the use and possible risks of nanomaterials, as well as policyholder and insurer counsel who will address the insurance industry’s recent reaction to nanotechnology as well as the ways in which companies can effectively manage their risk in this area.

INS AND OUTS OF BUSINESS INTERRUPTION
Business Interruption Coverage forms can cover the insured for “loss resulting from the necessary interruption of business...and caused by...any of the perils covered herein.” As seen with Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, there are often complex issues with respect to the “foot” and what is “covered herein.” This session will provide an overview of business interruption claims and delve into the contentious issues that often arise. Discussion topics include: What is Covered; Valuation; Periods of Restoration; Limits/Deductibles; Continuing & Extra Expenses; and Risk Management and General Business issues.

PIRACY CLAIMS AND COVERAGE ISSUES
Maritime piracy has been the focus of considerable media attention in recent months and years. Piracy now is acknowledged by the maritime industry—including the marine insurance sector—as a very real risk in maritime commercial operations. Now, perhaps more than ever, ocean carriers are forced to take steps to secure their crew, vessels and commercial interests against the detrimental effects of piracy. This panel discussion will focus on the legal and practical issues associated with the underwriting of insurance policies to account for risks of piracy, coverage for losses caused by pirate attacks, and handling the volatile negotiations with pirates to secure the release of crew and cargo.

CLIMATE CHANGE COVERAGE ISSUES
In light of increasing recognition of the current and possible prospective effects of global climate change, insurers have responded by developing new insurance products, as well as creating endorsements to existing products and/or modifications to policy wordings. For policyholders, brokers, attorneys, and other insurers, these policy changes will have a significant impact both on the marketplace and with respect to claims arising out of climate change exposures. This presentation will highlight key policy wording changes; address the implications for policyholders considering insurance options; evaluate the direction of the marketplace in response; discuss the claims issues that result; and prepare attendees for an expanding growth area in an important insurance coverage litigation area.
