New On-line Business News Consolidation Service

A friend of the economic development community, Mike Randle, recently launched an excellent on-line business news consolidation service at www.RandleReport.com. The site captures all of the business, political and economic development news happening in the South. We believe this central source will become your "go to" location for all of the South's most important economic development news.

In addition to breaking business news, the site publishes original stories, editorials and blogs from readers as well as from the staff of Southern Business & Development. All of the political and economic development news published on the site originates from the South or affects the Southern region. Additionally, the site includes links to the top stories from hundreds of other Southern-based media outlets.

Editor Mike Randle welcomes readers to contribute economic development news and articles. Sharing information and news of our successes in the economic development arena will continue to position the southeast region as a premier business destination.

We invite you to visit Mike's new site at www.RandleReport.com.
