

HEALTHCARE PRACTICE GROUP CAPABILITIES

Bradley's Healthcare Practice Group is a nationally recognized, interdisciplinary team of attorneys and advisors who provide a comprehensive suite of services to virtually the entire range of health industry participants. Our Healthcare Practice Group is routinely relied on to guide major transactions, advise on complex regulatory matters, and handle high-stakes litigation. Many of the group's attorneys have served in high-profile industry leadership positions, including as president of the American Health Lawyers Association, and many have been recognized by leading legal industry referral guides, including Chambers USA, The Best Lawyers in America® and Super Lawyers.

Comprehensive Counsel to the Healthcare Industry

Consistently ranked as one of the nation's largest healthcare law firms by Modern Healthcare, we focus on nearly every subsector of the industry, handling transactions, responding to regulatory developments, defending whistleblower suits, and interfacing with the government.

Our skill and reputation as high-quality healthcare lawyers arise from the sheer volume of our experience in successfully handling a comprehensive range of legal matters facing the healthcare industry, including:

- Antitrust
- Certificates of need
- Clinical integration and value-based arrangements
- Clinical research
- Compliance and regulatory matters
- Corporate Governance Matters
- Employee benefits
- False Claims Act and government enforcement matters
- Health information technology
- Fraud and abuse compliance counseling
- Healthcare contracting and operational matters
- Healthcare financing transactions
- Healthcare litigation
- Information privacy and security
- Intellectual property issues
- Labor and employment matters
- Licensure, certification, and accreditation issues
- Litigation and risk management
- Managed care litigation
- Medical staff issues
- Mergers, acquisition, and joint ventures
- Real estate matters
- Reimbursement matters
- Tax matters
- Telehealth and digital health

Recent Experience

- Routinely serve as deal counsel for major transactions in a wide variety of industry subsectors, with particular emphasis on the hospital and outpatient services segments
- Routinely act as special regulatory counsel for significant deals, including numerous public company mergers and acquisitions and other transformative transactions
- Represent healthcare companies in bet-the-company litigation, including a False Claims Act case described by Law360 as "one of the most extraordinary court battles in FCA history"
- Represent leading hospitals and health systems in antitrust matters associated with significant transactions, including working through novel issues involving cross-market competition and obtaining certificates of public advantage
- Work as IRO responsible for reviewing compliance of major healthcare services provider with corporate integrity agreement
- Serve as primary outside counsel for multiple health systems on health information privacy and security matters, including providing data breach and cybersecurity incident response guidance
- Represent several major healthcare companies in preparation of comments to OIG and CMS regarding regulatory reform

"Due to the number of national healthcare industry companies headquartered in Nashville, leading firms in the city like Bradley have as much or more experience than the more well-known national firms, and they are much more cost-effective than those firms. Bradley's healthcare lawyers also stand out in their willingness and ability to help us meet our business objectives while understanding and mitigating legal risk." – U.S. News Best Lawyers "Best Law Firms"
